

Exhibit 18

The screenshot shows the Education section of Lise-Anne Monkhouse's LinkedIn profile. The following entries are circled in red:

- International Baccalaureate
IB Certificate in Teaching and Learning, Secondary Education and Teaching
Sep 2019 - Oct 2020
Activities and societies: International Education
- Durham University
Postgraduate Certificate in Education (Secondary/International) with Distinction, Secondary Education and Teaching
Jul 2019 - Jun 2020
- International School of Geneva
POCE International, International Education
Sep 2019 - Jun 2020
Activities and societies: EDI Workshop Lead

The screenshot shows the Experience section of Lise-Anne Monkhouse's LinkedIn profile. The following entries are visible:

- La Côte International School Aubonne
Full-time · 3 yrs 11 mos
On-site
- Head of the Departments of Mathematics and Computer Science
Sep 2022 - Present · 1 yr 11 mos
Aubonne, Vaud, Switzerland
Equality, Diversity and Inclusion through the lens of mathematics.
Curriculum Development, Python (Programming Language) and +8 skills
- Head of Mathematics and Computer Science
Sep 2022 - Present · 1 yr 11 mos
Switzerland
- Teacher of Mathematics and Computer Science
Sep 2020 - Sep 2022 · 2 yrs 1 mo
Aubonne, Vaud, Switzerland
Teacher of mathematics and computer science in lower secondary, IGCSE and the International Baccalaureate Diploma Program. Teaching ethnic, all learning matters
- Full-time parenting
Career Break
Jun 2003 - Sep 2011 · 8 yrs 4 mos
USA/Europe
A time of growth and adventure, 3 children in less than 3 years...it was a time of freedom and exploration. I crossed the central Kalahari desert, camping, parts of the Sahara as well. I climbed some big mountains, hiked steep and deep. It was a lot of van/camper living and wild camping across the western US and lower Canada. And there was boat camping on Lake Powell in the summer, and exploring the Columbia River and East coast lakes. There was sailing on the Mad, the Keys and the Caribbean. And where there was powder I was skiing, sometimes with a baby on board. When not moving around, it was more of a homesteading lifestyle, big garden and canning, sewing and crafting, woodworking and wine making, livestock and chickens. Raising my children with an understanding of the land, the mountains, rivers, oceans and deserts.
- Faculty Lecturer
Columbia University · Part-time
Sep 1999 - Jun 2002 · 6 yrs 10 mos
New York, New York, United States · On-site
Lectured for the Department of Probability and Statistics at both the under-graduate and graduate level. Course development, resource development, pedagogical development of courses in probability, analysis and statistical theory. One year sabbatical at Rice University, 1999-2000
Academic Writing, University Lecturing and +4 skills

Eventhough Ms. Karen had a Phd from an Ivy League University she was “too afraid” to work the years 2017-2002 during her mental panic. Instead she paid tuition of $40,000/yr to go back to school and get another certificate, and spun the narrative of single-mother poverty. If the topic involves money, you can be certain Ms. Karen is lying about it.

<https://www.linkedin.com/in/lise-anne-monkhouse-phd-230a573b/>